BUILD LUCRATIVE BUSINESS RELATIONSHIPS

Tap into the LPI's huge network of learning professionals and explore opportunities that might have been overlooked by a generic sales approach

"LPI accreditation has played a key role in helping us understand the market and keeping our business relevant. It is an invaluable resource for connecting to peers and forming new relationships that ultimately drive business value."

Stuart Martin,
Group Sales Director, QA

"The LPI is a fantastic source of advice, networking opportunities, industry trends and updates. Every single person we've met from the LPI is genuinely passionate about learning and development, keen to move the industry forward and tangibly and creatively helpful for us. As a leading provider of online learning solutions, Filtered is proud to be an accredited member of this influential, progressive institution."

Marc Zao-Sanders, CEO, Filtered

"LPI accreditation has enabled us to generate business by not only suggesting where we should improve but also in providing continual support from our accreditation mentor and the wider network of the LPI learning community. Overall the accreditation process makes you think much deeper about every angle of the business and this is a huge positive for us and our customers."

Samantha Kinstrey,
Director, The Inform Team

"The accreditation process has been crucial in helping us tighten up, review our strategy and aims, and ensure consistent quality across the whole service. But the best thing of all is the networking and the chance to get together and share ideas with colleagues across the industry. Without the LPI, I would feel very isolated."
