“The real value of the process for Saffron has been the constructive challenge from the Accreditor. The process itself makes the organisation look constantly towards the future and to make big step changes towards the strategy we want to execute. It’s allowed Saffron to grow purposefully to be an organisation that puts innovation at its core.”

Noorie Sazen, Managing Director, Saffron Interactive

“For organisations providing learning technologies to their external clients, our accreditation provides us with a globally recognised mark of quality that is important for our customers. In addition the accreditation process provides us with an invaluable opportunity to review our business strategy with the LPI’s industry-leading experts.”

Mike Byrne, UK Country Manager, Netex

“Volume is extremely proud to be LPI accredited. Not only does our accreditation authenticate the high standards of our learning solutions, but it’s also helped to position us as a credible L&D partner, which has proved advantageous in many pitch scenarios. Awareness of Volume’s L&D capabilities has demonstrably increased in the industry, and attending LPI’s many networking events has allowed me personally to network with other experts in this field and potential new clients – many of whom I would not have met under normal circumstances. The LPI keeps abreast of sector trends, news and insights, and in turn shares this information, which brings about a wealth of benefits for everyone!”
